NTUSU alcohol girl/RUOT exposed for playing the victim and being a bully

Info Sharing

let's not take the focus away from what R has actually been doing - misusing her platform to bully other people and playing the victim under the guise of social justice.

this video (https://www.reddit.com/r/SingaporeRaw/comments/11qa21l/ntu_ejc_ns_peeps_whats_the_tea/?utm_source=share&utm_medium=ios_app&utm_name=iossmf&utm_content=1&utm_term=1) has resurfaced as a result of a post that went up on r/ntu ytd, but the MAIN point is that the 'rumours' she addressed in her video weren't even about her. as somebody from her jc batch, i can attest that a lot of these rumors were about OTHER people, and when she took to the online space to speak about this, a lot of us were genuinely shocked and confused bcos she has never been associated with any of these rumors before. more importantly, her reaction to this video was even more alarming - she went on a doxxing spree of the CHS boys from our batch, called out anybody who said her video was extreme etc.

R has always had this pattern of twisting and manipulating the truth to fit her agenda. in more recent times, the NTUSU alcohol saga was also blown greatly out of proportion by her - she let the NTU community believe that there was sexual misconduct in the case by lumping together phrases such as "victims of misconduct/sexual assault" on her social media, which led to a school wide manhunt for the dude. more importantly, she shared within our own circles (i heard from another one of our batch mates) that she let things go to such an extreme just bcos she hated the guy.

and she's done it once again - on her telegram channel, a place allegedly meant for safe discourse and discussion, she labelled one of her followers a paedophilia by selectively censoring, deleting and silencing any other narrative that didn't fit with her own. the original OP took down the post, but screenshots from her channel can be found here: https://docs.google.com/document/d/13A78UsecLpe357A9i6H7IDw436PoNNNkdzPCeJk35xE/mobilebasic essentially i think that over the years of knowing R, she has had this repeat habit of manipulating situations and framing the other people for things they didn't do. she's not the saint she paints herself out to be on the online space and as somebody who has interacted with her before and seen people suffer from her actions, i'm quite done also. this girl was our student council vice president in jc, but didn't do much to help out with sch wide events such as orientation. she claims that NTUSU engages in nepotism, but she didn't even run through elections for her previous term (you can see the 32nd election meeting minutes), she was appointed to her old exco role by the previous president. and this year, when she failed her own elections, she went on a rampage about how undemocratic and unfair it was.. kinda ironic and when met with criticism, she goes around saying that it's all an orchestrated social media smear campaign. come on la, people have better things to do than fake this kind of thing. it's repeat behaviour, and im glad people are finally speaking up cos this has to stop before another person gets harmed by her selfishness and attention seeking behaviour edit: stop downvoting sis, you pissed off so many people in JC (and uni too apparently) with your behaviour you should expect that eventually somebody would speak up against you .-.

While I agree that the way she has spun the narrative in a misleading direction is not to be condoned, I think that most people in NTU understand the key facts, including the fact that there was no actual assault or evidence of an attempt at SA.

Just like how we're ignoring Ethan Ong (well, until he decided to play the litigation card), it would be best to just ignore her actions and move on.

More importantly, NTU's student body still hasn't made demands for a more democratic, accountable, and independent student union. That's the only reason we should continue to talk about the Ethan Ong incident: not to stir the pot and gossip, but to pinpoint the failures in the way NTUSU is currently run and organised.

correct! i think most students know that, and i also think that NTUSU can do better. but the point im trying to get at is that she purposely manipulated mass opinion to believe something that didn't happen (not just with NTUSU ofc, she has done this to others), and im not saying this without any grounds - ppl in our overlapping friend circles actually heard her share that she did what she did to ethan because she hated him and was salty over her election outcome

sss student here... honestly her rep in our school is p bad also everyone knows about the big fuss she kicked up last year and hearsay she exaggerated a lot of things online to paint herself as a victim - heard even the profs are scared to have her in their class because of her knack for cancelling people she disagrees with lol

If Ruot truly cared about sexual misconduct and lack of accountability in NTUSU, she would have asked for Ethan Ong to resign immediately after she found out. Yet, she only decided to wait after she lost her reelection to make a ruckus.

It is clear that she did all this out of her own selfish ego. She is not a victim of NTUSU. She is part of the NTUSU problem, whether she likes it or not.

now some poor law girl is about to become a case study for her juniors because she read some carefully crafted shit online and decided to go ham whole thing just shows that we all need to be a bit more critical of things we read online rather than just reading headlines or comments/posts with the most upvotes. the internet is rigged and much of what you are reading are echo chambers - i remember there were a shit of comments getting deleted on the original SGexams post that went up when they weren't even antagonistic or just pointing out how certain things didn't make sense (like why she chose a year and specifically the election period to bring the whole bonanza to the fore and didn't bring it up at the time of the incident)

Maybe she, in consultation with her lawyers can discuss a GoFundMe.

Ethan Ong shouldn't have done the deed without consent as the SU president, Ruot is manipulative asf, the NTU bus service sucks and I just emailed my prof for a consultation, which he said "sure".

Life's allllll-right.

two things can be wrong simultaneously: Ethan can be wrong for switching drinks, Ruot can be wrong for her tele channel
